As a mixed media collage artist, I blend various materials to tell stories. I focus on still life, finding beauty in everyday objects. My art is about experimenting with textures and surfaces, constantly seeking new ways to create. I enjoy exploring tactile sensations, using a diverse range of materials such as hand-made papers or glossy magazine clippings. I value the warmth of hand cut collage and the exploration of layered texturing in my process. Through my work, I aim to engage viewers in a sensory experience, transforming the ordinary into something extraordinary.
